

REBELMAIL

powered by Google

GET REBELMAIL TODAY!

Rebelmail is your official UNLV e-mail account. UNLV sends deadlines and news to Rebelmail.

UNLV adopted Google for Rebelmail in March 2010.

So, go ahead:

1. Activate.
2. Log in.
3. Enjoy.

rebelmail.unlv.edu

BUT, WHAT IF...

I already use Gmail? Consolidate your Gmail accounts into one. Forward or add the account as a POP3 connection in either one. If you currently use other Google Apps (such as Chat, Docs, or Calendars), continue using those in your personal Gmail account until those apps are added to Rebelmail.

I already forwarded my Rebelmail to another e-mail address a long time ago? Activate and log into your new Rebelmail account. You can either use Rebelmail or reforward it to an account you prefer.

I don't do anything? You will not receive official communications from UNLV. This includes notices about overdue library books, billing notices, deadlines for registration, and more.

I don't want to use Gmail or Rebelmail? All official university communications are sent to Rebelmail, including your registration log in information. Forward e-mail sent to Rebelmail to an e-mail account that you check daily.

I need help? Contact the IT Help Desk at 895-0777 or ithelp@unlv.edu or go to rebelmail.unlv.edu.

DID YOU KNOW...

You can:

- Join forces to rid the world of spam.
- Set up canned responses instead of typing them over and over again.
- Use tasks as a handy to do list.
- Preview attachments without downloading them.
- Find these tips and more at rebelmail.unlv.edu.

Your e-mail address is

username@unlv.nevada.edu.

Docs, Calendar and Chat are coming soon.

Office of
INFORMATION
TECHNOLOGY

